

Home > Workforce management > Performance development > Performance Development Framework > Aligning individual and organisational performance

Aligning individual and organisational performance

Supporting individual development to deliver organisational results.

Collectively the essential elements articulate organisational approaches and behavioural characteristics that support individual performance management and development to deliver organisational and sector results.

Clear alignment of organisational strategy and actionable employee performance goals is critical for overall organisational performance. Alignment of goals also supports employees in understanding how their work contributes to broader business outcomes.